I read your special issue on "ICT for Rural Financial Services". CAB has indeed brought out the focus to the core issue of technology in rural banking. All the options available and the future landscape have been beautifully laid out in the issue. The issue was well brought out and highly useful.

T. S. Krishnaswamy, Deputy General Manager, State Bank of India, SME SBU, Mumbai

I would like to congratulate CAB for bringing out a special issue on "ICT for Rural Financial Services". Reaching out to rural India through appropriate low cost technology is the prime need of the hour as we have a social obligation to provide financial inclusion to the rural masses and bring them to the mainstream banking. All the articles are informative and have addressed the importance of the core issue of technology.

V. Ramachandran, Vice President, Indian Banks' Association, Mumbai

When I saw the issue of "CAB Calling" for the first time, I thought that this would also be one among innumerable financial journals and magazines. But I am surprised to find out that it contained quality editorial, informative articles and the gist of RBI circulars. The editorial committee and the contributors have added their rich knowledge and experience to the quality of the magazine

R. Ragavendran, Manager, Corporation Bank, Mugasianumanpalli

Thank you very much for bringing out an educative, informative and incisive issue on "ICT for Rural Financial Services". The well thought out articles have brought out the fact that despite the constraints ICT based solutions have practical relevance in the rural set-up.
